QGS NEWS

We are excited to announce that, due to the small wet bin expansion and grain-bagging system, we were able to take in 1,535,605 bushels of wet corn this harvest season. Since the corn was much wetter this year than last year, we were happy to see that our systems were effective!

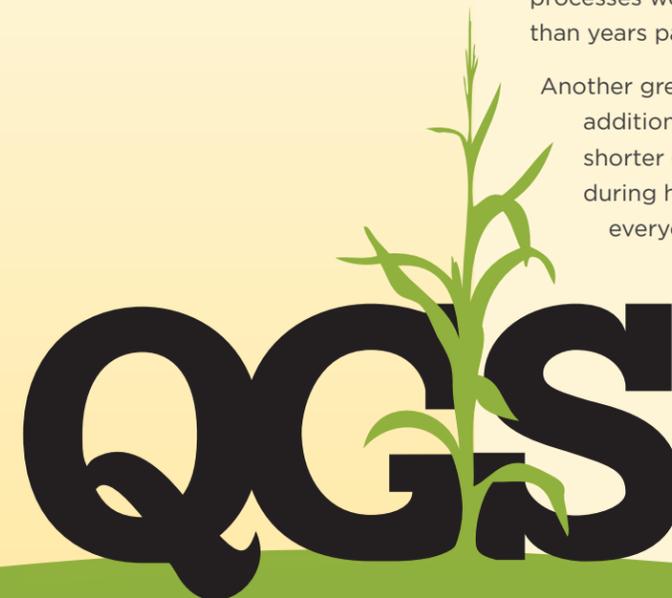

Thanks to our efficient new processes, we had more than 1.2 million bushels of grain in inventory by the end of November. We know that we wouldn't have been able to process nearly as much grain without these facility improvements and are happy that the processes were much more efficient than years past.

Another great result of last summer's additions were the much shorter grain drop-off lines during harvest season. We hope everyone was able to enjoy the shorter wait times!

Moving forward, Quality Grain Services has no large expansion plans for the near future. We're really happy with the systems and technologies we have in place and are excited about how smoothly our processes have been running. All of these improvements have us looking forward to a great 2014 crop season!

Last fall we mentioned that we were looking into the possibility of having a seed treatment facility on-site for this spring's planting season. Now, we are excited to announce that we are moving forward with our partnership with Dairyland Seed and will be offering this new service to our customers. Check out more details about the partnership and seed treatment process inside!

QGS ONLINE

QGS online is continuing to provide up-to-date information for our customers this spring.

We are happy to announce that the service rates for the spring and summer of 2014 have been updated without major adjustments, and chemical prices will remain the same as they were last year. Be sure to visit the website to check out the other services pages and price adjustments.

Due to the addition of our new seed treatment service (see the article titled "Seed Treatment"), we have added a new page to our website. We hope that this page will help you find the answers to any questions you have about the new process and allow you to take advantage of the service. Plus, the page has photos for you to check out and a great write-up from Dairyland Seed about the new partnership.

Feel free to give us a call if you have any questions or feedback about your experiences on www.QualityGrainServices.com! We love to keep in touch, and our website continues to be a great platform for that.

SEED TREATMENT

We are excited to announce that Quality Grain Services has officially become one of the first seed treatment centers in Western Wisconsin through our recent partnership with Dairyland Seed.

This partnership allows us to offer our customers new and better-priced products. It will also allow us to carry unsold inventory into the planting season, which means that when customers need seed during planting we will be able to offer them a larger selection. Other benefits of the partnership include our access to Dairyland Seed's research and technical support throughout the treatment process and the opportunity for us to purchase our inoculants, fungicides, and insecticides at lower prices. We are excited to pass all of these benefits on to our consumers!

Please keep in mind that our partnership with Dairyland Seed does allow us to treat other brands of seed, so we look forward to helping you fulfil your seed treatment needs this spring. If you have other questions about the process or our partnership, check out the Seed Treatment page on our website.

FACILITY & LOCATION

QGS is located at N12390 170th Street, Boyceville, WI. This is a quarter mile east of Connorsville, Wisconsin and south of Highway 64.

Because of our constant facility expansions, we understand that it may be difficult for you to find your way around the site. Check out the map to the right to find the locations of QGS buildings, and if you have any questions feel free to stop in the office to speak with one of our friendly secretaries!

A NOTE FROM THE OWNER

As always, I would like to start off with a huge "thank you" to all of our customers. During harvest season, things tend to get really hectic around the facility, and I don't always get a chance to let everyone know how much their business is truly appreciated. All of our customers, no matter how large or small, are important to us.

As I'm sure you've noticed, I am looking forward to using the new seed treatment service QGS is beginning this spring. I will be using this service for my own seed and am glad that we will be able to offer the same opportunity to customers. This new process will do a much better job of treating seed and will offer great flexibility. We look forward to hearing your feedback about the new program!

Last fall we managed to dry a large amount of corn even though we had a poor growing season. This year, I am looking forward to a much better growing season and am confident that all of the great developments we've made over the last few years will help us provide awesome services for our drying and storage customers.

Good luck with your spring planting, and stay safe!

QGS got a fun new addition over the holidays. If you're ever wondering if the secretary is in, check out the sign!
